About ChemSkills (Chemical Industries Employer's Network)

ChemSkills is a network that allows employers to share knowledge, experience and expertise to enhance business development through their people.

The UK's Chemical Industry

- Over 230,000 employees
- Annual sales of £32 billion
- UK manufacturing's number one exporter
- Spending £400 million on training every year

Benefits

By sharing the knowledge and expertise of our Industry Training Specialists, companies can benefit through:

- Access to best practice
- Harnessing skills
- Addressing business priorities
- Influencing funding opportunities

Regional Partners

ChemSkills enjoys the support of major skills and industry bodies in the UK.

Chemicals Northwest is an industry-led organisation which, working with partners, aims to ensure that the level of expertise in the Industry remains high.

The Learning & Skills Council is the organisation that makes England better skilled and more competitive.

Through our links we are able to alert members of the latest workforce development opportunities.

Membership is open to those individuals with primary responsibility for training in their organisation.

Meetings are held at regional member sites and are based on topics aimed at addressing industry's current and future needs.
